Harnessing the Potential of Young Adults: How Programs Are Using Youth Voice, Education, and Workforce Development to Transform Systems

An AYPF Study Tour

October 8-10, 2019

Boston, Massachusetts and East Providence, Rhode Island

Nationally, there are 4.6 million young adults between the ages of 16-24 that are not in school or working. These outcomes are more troubling for young adults “aging out” of foster care and/or involved in the juvenile justice systems due to additional barriers. For example, incarcerated youth can face systemic discrimination, as many employers and workforce development programs can perceive them as less reliable and workforce ready due to their past convictions. For young adults aging out of foster care, their unemployment rates can be as high as 69% compared to only about 10% of young adults ages 16 to 24 who are not in foster care due to their lack of stable housing and other critical supports. Despite these numbers, three nationally recognized programs in Rhode Island and Massachusetts have found a way to successfully combine youth voice, education, and employment to create a new narrative for the young people they serve. The programs offer social enterprises, job training, case management, mentoring, and share a deep commitment to harnessing the potential of young adults.

The Study Tour will consist of multiple policy discussions, site visits, testimonies from young adults, and presentations from labor/workforce, child welfare, and juvenile justice leaders about the steps they are taking to coordinate systems and streamline services to achieve greater outcomes for youth. Additionally, we will discuss relevant federal legislation and programs that are supporting this work.

Our goals include:

- Highlighting three effective programs that are using education and workforce development as a key strategy for achieving success with young adults.
- Elevating youth voice and hearing directly from young adults about how their involvement in workforce and education programs have changed their trajectory.
- Identifying and including state government departments to highlight the importance of government systems partnering with programs to increase support for youth.
- Discussing how federal/state policies can be improved to better serve young adults involved in the foster care and juvenile justice systems.

Site Description:

Artists For Humanity (AFH) is one of the largest employers of youth in the City of Boston, with 250 under-resourced teens employed as artists and designers each year during critical out-of-school hours. During the summer, the teen artists work 25 hours per week and 9 hours per week during the school year. 83% of their youth employees are from low-income diverse families. Moreover, 54% live in the Boston neighborhoods most beset with violence, and 44% live in single-parent households. These factors place their youth at higher risk for failing or dropping out of school and for significantly decreased employability. AFH counteracts the risks facing young people by giving youth a job; enrichment that comes from the arts and cultural experiences; a safe place to go with their peers after school; a culture of respect, responsibility, and engaged mentorship; an opportunity to learn and conduct business in the innovation economy; and essential life skills.

4:20pm-5:00pm

Drive to Site #2 (From Boston, MA to Lowell, MA)

UTEC

35 Warren St., Lowell, MA 01852

Site Description:

UTEC's mission is to ignite and nurture the ambition of its most disconnected young people to trade violence and poverty for social and economic success. UTEC offers several programs and opportunities for young adults, including transitional coaching, workforce development training through social enterprises, GED classes and a dual-enrollment program to earn college credits. In 2018, UTEC served 148 young adults in their intensive enrollment program, and nearly 600 total. Of enrolled young adults, 94% had a criminal record; 66% lacked a high school credential; and 52% were expecting/parenting. As a result of working with UTEC, 97% had no new convictions or technical violations; 88% had no new arrests or technical violations; and 63% received an industry-recognized certification.

10:30am-10:40am

Welcome to UTEC (Main Building)

Geoff Foster, Director of Organizing and Policymaking, UTEC

Geoff will provide participants with an overview of the various programs at UTEC that young adults can participate in and their recruitment process to find young people with prior involvement in the juvenile justice system. Additionally, participants will be provided with a brief history of the organization, their program model, and success rates.

10:40am-11:00am

Eliminating Barriers: 2Gen Early Childhood Education Center Site Visit

More than a third of UTEC's young adults are also young parents and finding affordable, high-quality child care is often a major barrier to seeking employment and education opportunities. In 2017, UTEC opened an onsite, UTEC-operated early childhood education center to help young families break the cycle of poverty. With a child-centered, social-emotional based curriculum, their 2Gen Center is inspired by the Reggio Emilia philosophy that encourages children to lead their own learning. With experienced, educated teachers supporting independence and self-regulation, children at the 2Gen Center are building on the same Core Competencies that their parents are working on next door.

- 11:00am-11:50am Youth in Action: UTEC's Food Manufacturing, Café, and Woodwork Social Enterprises Tour
 UTEC's social enterprises offer young adults paid work experience to develop the job and life skills required to excel in any workplace. Their social enterprises achieve a triple bottom line by: 1) facilitating positive youth development, along with paid work experience; 2) generating earned revenue to support their mission; and 3) supporting the communities' economic development.
- 11:45am-12:30pm Shifting Gears: How UTEC's Work is Shaping Policy
 A Conversation with Peter J. Koutoujian, Sheriff, Middlesex Sheriff's Office
 Working with the Vera Institute of Justice and UTEC, the Middlesex Sheriff's Office created a program for young adults with histories of incarceration, to operate a unit for individuals ages 18 to 24. The Middlesex Sheriff's Office is the first local jurisdiction in the nation to create such a specialized unit. UTEC will be able to integrate their education, job training, and counseling services to support young adults before they are released. This shift will help to improve opportunities for success, and ultimately reduce recidivism among young adults.
- 12:30pm-1:00pm A Youth's Perspective: Why This Work Matters Lunch Conversation
 Participants will have the opportunity to hear from several young adults about their experiences and which key elements of UTEC's programs have been the most meaningful to them. Using written statements and personal testimonies, the youth will convey how their lives have been impacted.

 Foster Forward is a nationally and locally recognized leader committed to empowering lives impacted by foster care. In Rhode Island, the youth unemployment rate is 20%, it is more than double at 52% for youth who have experienced foster care. Works Wonders, a program of Foster Forward was originally started as a research initiative funded through a Children's Bureau grant to research ways to help Rhode Island's foster youth who have aged out of or are about to age out of state care succeed in the workplace. About 60% of youth in the Works Wonders program did not have previous work experience. The program has grown into an evidence-supported career development and employment engagement program that provides 8-10 hours of skills based training, 12 weeks of one-on-one career coaching, and paid work-based learning opportunities.

The Power of Community: Foster Forward's Storefront Tour

As the saying goes, "It takes a village to raise a child." This sentiment rings true especially for youth and families involved in the foster care system. Foster Forward's Storefront is an amazing space where those impacted by foster care in Rhode Island may gather for activities and shop for donated clothes, toys, and other household needs. Youth, foster parents, and others can shop for free items during designated days and times. We'll make a brief stop to check out the space and hear about how the storefront began and its impact on those involved in the foster care system.

Youth In Transition: A Rhode Island Perspective on the State's New Legislation to Extend their Foster Care Services to Age 21
A Conversation with State Senator Luis DiPalma and Foster Forward Youth Advocates

Moderated by Victoria Ferrara, Director of Programs, Foster Forward

Last year, Rhode Island passed legislation that would provide eligible 18-year-old youth in foster care with the option to stay in foster care and request services, such as housing assistance and job training. This policy existed in Rhode Island, until it was eliminated in 2007 due to a budget shortfall. Shortly after, the 2008 federal Fostering Connections to Success and Increasing Adoptions Act allowed states to extend foster care to 21 with federal reimbursement through the Social Security's Act for foster care. According to the National Conference of State Legislatures, there are now approximately 25 states and the District of Columbia that have enacted legislation to extend foster care beyond age 18. Youth remaining in foster care after 18 doubled their odds of working or completing high school at 19 and are twice as likely to complete one year of college.

Using a Systems Approach to Implement Change: How Foster Forward Leveraged their Partnerships with the Department of Labor, Providence Housing Authority, and DCYF.

  - Scott Jensen, Director of Department of Labor and Training, Rhode Island Department of Labor
  - Elizabeth Bioteau, Continuum of Care Planner for Rhode Island- HUD Dollars and Rapid Re-Housing Program
- Lisa Guillette, Executive Director, Foster Forward (Moderator)

Aligning systems continues to be one of the greatest priorities and challenges for state, federal, and nonprofit leaders serving young adults involved in the juvenile justice and child welfare systems. Many organizations and policymakers struggle to engage with labor and housing stakeholders, despite how critical their involvement is with the youth populations. We will learn about how Foster Forward was able to skillfully develop partnerships with housing and labor to strengthen their programming for youth transitioning out of foster care.

4:30pm-5:15pm

What Makes Foster Forward Different? Closing Activity Featuring Foster Forward Youth

Several young adults from Foster Forward's programs will talk about their experiences and which key elements of Foster Forward programs have been the most meaningful to them. Using written statements and personal testimonies, the youth will convey how their lives have been impacted.

There is a strong momentum and incentive to create policies for young adults that are focused on prevention, youth development models, holistic family supports, and encompass restorative justice approaches. The Family First Prevention Services Act, Diversion Programs, the Foster Youth to Independence Housing Initiative through HUD, the reauthorization of the Juvenile Justice Delinquency and Prevention Act (JJDP) and the Cross-Over Youth Practice Model, as well as other state efforts are several examples of new or expanded approaches to serving youth. We will end our day on a positive note, by highlighting and discussing many of the new and exciting policies and initiatives at the federal, state, and local level.
